

Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Attorney

The Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Act (DTPA) is a law that protects consumers from most trade or commerce practices that are false, misleading or deceptive. At the Law Offices of James R. Tucker, P.C., in Dallas, I represent consumers in lawsuits to protect their rights under the DTPA. Each of these cases is unique, and I tailor the approach to my clients' needs and goals.

I obtained an $8.2 million verdict (later settled for $4.2 million--client received $2.1 million after fees and expenses) in a Deceptive Trade Practices Act case involving misrepresentations made during the sale of a large dairy business. The case was tried in Jack County, Texas.

Many of my clients are homeowners who have experienced problems with homes that were built for them. I take legal action against developers, builders, contractors and foundation repair companies for failure to build according to plan, construction defects, design defects and fraud. I know that a home may be the biggest investment that you ever make so, when it doesn't go according to plan, it is important to talk with an experienced lawyer about your options.

I am AV-rated under Martindale-Hubbell's peer review rating system and am a member of the Million Dollar Advocates Forum, an elite group of trial lawyers made up of 1 percent of attorneys who have recovered million- or multimillion-dollar jury verdicts for their clients. While there is no way to predict the future and nothing can undo a crash, taking effective legal action can be the best way to move forward and reclaim your life.
